Preface

This third volume of the catalogue of Chinese Buddhist texts continues a project which started already in 1965 – the co-operation between the Research Society of Central Asian Culture (Saiiki Bunka Kenkyūkai) at the Ryūkyō University in Kyōto and the Berlin Turfan research projects with the aim of investigating the relevant part of the Berlin Turfan collection and compiling a catalogue of these fragments. The first two volumes were published during the period of the GDR, in 1975 and 1985 respectively, in the series “Berliner Turfantexte”.¹ After 1989 the responsibility for the catalogue project was placed with the “Union catalogue of Oriental manuscripts in German collections” at the Academy of Sciences Göttingen under the direction of Hartmut-Ortwin FEISTEL.

This third volume, and a further, fourth one, were prepared by the late KUDARA Kōgi, who after several years of serious illness, passed away on May 12th, 2004, before he could see the results of his labours published. During the conference “Turfan Revisited – The First Century of Research into the Arts and Cultures of the Silk Road“ held in Berlin in September 2002, KUDARA offered a copy of the manuscript to us, so that we shared the work of correcting the proofs and solving some of the remaining problems. At that moment he informed us about the division of the material between the two volumes: volume 3 includes 1,109 fragments with Ch signatures and volume 4 around 1,146 fragments with mixed Ch/U and Ch/So signatures. He was also anxious to point out HASUIKE Toshitaka’s share in the compilation of these volumes. Because it was agreed that the concept of the catalogue was not to be changed, one main problem was left, the information about the “period” of the manuscripts. Because the late FUJIEDA Akira had changed his system, KUDARA and his team intended to use the improved period-system from volume 3 on, which would need several more months of work, as they informed us.² During his work on the manuscripts and the adoption of FUJIEDA’s new separate chronological standard for the Turfan manuscripts, KUDARA slightly revised FUJIEDA’s standard concerning the beginning of the Uigur period and the oblique lines separating each period. It was his intention to add a detailed introduction to vol. 3 and “the core style of the introduction is shown in the introduction of our exhibition catalogue”³, as he informed me during our meeting at the conference “The Way of Buddha” 2003: The 100th Anniversary of the Otani Mission and the 50th of the Research Society for Central Asian Cultures, held in Kyōto in September 2003. This conference was accompanied by the exhibition “Traces of Sacred Texts and Expressions from findings along the Silk Road”.

MITANI Mazumi, continuing the work of UHEYAMA Daishun and KUDARA Kōgi, is the editor of the volume presented here. He gave a lecture at the workshop “Digitalisierung chinesischer, tibetischer, syrischer und Sanskrit-Texte der Berliner Turfansammlung”, held at the Berlin-Brandenburg Academy of Sciences and Humanities in June 2005 in which he quoted from KUDARA’s introduction: “Our cataloguing work on the Chinese Buddhist texts in the collection of the German expeditions seemed to have stopped in 1985 as catalogue volume 2. But since there are some special problems with the materials excavated in the Turfan region, it was necessary to inspect many materials distributed to many countries in the world in order to get an overview”.⁴ KUDARA himself went not only to Berlin, he also visited the manuscript collections in London, Paris, Stockholm, Helsinki and Istanbul. In 2002 the Ryūkoku University started a joint research project with the Lushun Museum, where a further 25,000 fragments from Central Asia, mainly from the Turfan region, are preserved. As MITANI himself pointed out, “these materials will contribute not only to establishing the periods of transcription, but also to progress in the study of Buddhism in the Turfan region.”⁵ As a first result, MITANI presented in his paper the provisional standard of the Research Society of Central Asian Culture, which includes a new criterion – the method of the identification of the period of the transcription on the basis of the information provided by the handwriting and the paper of the manuscript. When MITANI and his colleagues started their work on KUDARA's unpublished manuscript of the catalogue volume, they found a lot of question marks concerning the data on the period in the descriptions of the single fragments. In April 2005 in Berlin, during a meeting in the presence of UHEYAMA Daishun, director of the Saiiki Bunka Kenkyūkai from 1988 to 1998, we discussed that problem. Since the new standard still needs some more time to be completed, we finally decided to exclude this information from this catalogue volume and to present a complete concordance for all Chinese Buddhist fragments described in the published catalogue volumes once the new chronological standard has been completed.

Besides newly introduced catalogue numbers and the omission of the data on the period, the description of the fragments follows the rules of the two previous catalogue volumes. All dimensions are given in centimetres. If older signatures exist, these are given, too.

With the support of the German Research Foundation, the main sponsor of the digitization project of the Berlin Turfan collection, the digitization of the Chinese Turfan texts (Ch signatures) will start at the end of 2005. The images and data – on the basis of the existing catalogue volumes – will be added to the database of the IDP project at British Library (London) of which a German version will run at the Berlin-Brandenburg Academy of Sciences and Humanities. The images of all Chinese-Uigur fragments (Ch/U signatures) are already available in the Digital Turfan Archive on the homepage of the Akademienvorhaben Turfanforschung.⁶

For their contributions to the catalogue volume presented here, we would like to express our sincere thanks to the colleagues from the Research Society for Central Asian Culture, Ryūkoku University: CHIKUSA Masaaki, ISHIZUKA Harumichi, INOKUCHI Taijun, KAJI Shinryu, KOIZUMI Enjun, KUBOTA Kenryu, NISHINO Ken, TOKIYA Koki, UHEYAMA Daishun, UNO Motoharu and USUDA Junzo.

We publish this volume in memory of KUDARA Kōgi, an excellent scholar and faithful colleague.

Abstract. This paper examines the ethical implications of the use of artificial intelligence (AI) in the workplace. It discusses the potential benefits and risks of AI, and the need for ethical guidelines and oversight. The paper argues that AI should be used in a way that respects human dignity and autonomy, and that it should be used to enhance human capabilities rather than replace them.

Keywords: Artificial intelligence, ethics, workplace, automation, human dignity, autonomy, oversight, guidelines.

1. Introduction

The rapid advancement of artificial intelligence (AI) technology has raised significant ethical concerns. As AI becomes increasingly integrated into the workplace, it is essential to consider the potential impacts on human workers and society as a whole.

2. The Benefits and Risks of AI

AI offers numerous benefits, including increased efficiency, reduced costs, and the ability to perform tasks that are dangerous or difficult for humans. However, there are also risks associated with AI, such as job displacement, loss of human skills, and the potential for AI to be used in unethical ways.

3. The Need for Ethical Guidelines and Oversight

Given the potential risks of AI, it is crucial to establish ethical guidelines and oversight mechanisms. These should ensure that AI is used in a way that respects human dignity and autonomy, and that it is used to enhance human capabilities rather than replace them.

4. Human Dignity and Autonomy

Human dignity and autonomy are fundamental values that should be protected in the workplace. AI should be used in a way that respects these values, and that it does not undermine the ability of human workers to make meaningful contributions.

5. Enhancing Human Capabilities

AI should be used to enhance human capabilities, rather than to replace them. This can be achieved through the development of AI systems that are designed to assist human workers, and that provide them with the tools and information they need to perform their jobs more effectively.

6. Conclusion

The use of AI in the workplace is a complex issue that requires careful consideration of the ethical implications. By establishing ethical guidelines and oversight mechanisms, we can ensure that AI is used in a way that respects human dignity and autonomy, and that it is used to enhance human capabilities.
